

What is a polyester capacitor?

A polyester capacitor, also known as a PET capacitor, is a type of capacitor that uses layers of metal and polyester or Mylar as its dielectric material. It is commonly available in two main varieties: metallised film capacitors and foil versions. Polyester capacitors are used to create a wide range of capacitance values within a relatively small package and for low voltages.

What are polyester film capacitors used for?

Polyester film capacitors, specifically model 2a103j, are widely used in TV, radio, radio recorder, and communication equipment, as well as electronic equipment. They have a withstand Voltage of 100V, a body size of 10 x 5 x 2mm (L*w*t), and a lead spacing of 5 mm (0.2").
