What is a safety capacitor?

Safety capacitors are circuit-specific and serve to protect the circuit and the user from high-voltage surges by shunting the impulse energy to ground. One common cause of such surges is lightning strikes. X Capacitors: Also known as "across-the-line capacitors."

What is a x/y safety capacitor?

X/Y Capacitors: Some safety capacitors come with a combination designation, for example, X1/Y2. This simply means that the capacitor can be used as an X1 capacitor in an across-the-line application or as a Y2 capacitor in the line-to-ground portion of the circuit. Tecate offers both X1/Y2 and X2/Y3 multilayer ceramic safety capacitors.

Does Tecate offer x/y safety capacitors?

Tecate Group offers X and Y safety capacitors in both ceramic SMD styles and polypropylene film capacitors in a radial box style package. The Tecate ceramic CMX X/Y capacitors are certified to various agency standards, which include IEC384-14, EN132400, IEC 60950, and UL60950.

Are Tecate AC safety capacitors UL compliant?

Tecate group offers a family of AC Safety Capacitors for X- and Y-class applications that require across-the-line and line-to-ground protection. This product is UL recognized and IEC 60384-1 compliant, and available in SMD and radial through-hole packages.

Who manufactures Presidio capacitors?

Presidio Components manufactures Presidio capacitors. The company has been an industry leader in the manufacture of ceramic capacitors since 1980. Presidio is dedicated to excellence in manufacturing, process control and customer service. All products are manufactured and tested in a state-of-the-art, 75,000 square foot facility in San Diego, California.

What is a Class X safety capacitor?

Class X safety capacitors are used between the "live" wires carrying the incoming AC current. These capacitors are used in applications where failure of the capacitor will not lead to risk of electrical shock to the user. A capacitor failure in this position will usually cause a fuse or circuit breaker to open.
